The price of The North American Review, published monthly, is fifty cents a single copy, or five dollars a year, in the United States, Porto Rico, Cuba, and the Philippine Islands. Subscribers in Canada should add to the yearly subscription price 36c for postage, and those in foreign countries 96c. Remittances may be made by money order, bank check, draft or registered letter.

Renewal orders if sent in promptly insure no break in the receipt of copies.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, 9 EAST 37TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY

THIS is our idea that if you, with $100 to invest—or $10,000 as the case may be—only knew the facts you would no longer hesitate but would immediately put your money to work. You would lend it to the highest bidder—the most responsible borrower you could find.

Since good securities can now be bought at prices to yield from 7% to 9%, more investors should take advantage of the situation. By purchasing now you can increase your income from 50% to 100% over and above what was considered the absolute limit of the income that indicated safety in the days before the great war.

All business men know that liabilities do not shrink. High inventories shrink. Plants depreciate, a certain percentage of accounts receivable prove uncollectible—but even in these days of depreciated money, a dollar owed on a long term bond remains a dollar owed.

A dollar in the cash drawer may buy only 50 cents worth of merchandise or 40 cents of labor to-day, but a dollar invested in a long term bond is still 100 cents.

Is it not logical to lend now at high interest rates and have your money come back to you in 10 to 15 years from now, when in all human probability a dollar will again buy 100 cents worth of merchandise as it did not so very long ago?
